All I waited for
Was a chance to make you understand
Tell you these forgotten truths
You never thought were real
And if the world should turn it's back
You know that I'm still here

Time won't ever steal my soul
And we're not broken
So please come home

Morning comes and life moves on
But when it changed
You didn't know where you belonged
I'll still catch you when you fall
From a past that steals your sleep
And scrawl these words upon your wall
Remind you to believe

Time won't ever steal my soul
And we're not broken
So please come home
And if the world has worn you down
I'll be waiting
So please come home

I won't let them break you down
I won't hear the empty sounds
I'm hopelessly pretending
That I know the answer
Angels light the neon fires
That burn so cold
Through your desires
And all you are is all I need to know

When the world is insane
You get used to the pain
And you don't even know how you feel
And I get like you
I'm alone and confused
But you know it's not forever

Time won't ever steal my soul
And we're not broken
So please come home
And if the world has worn you down
I'll be waiting
So please come home
