

Goodbye Satellite "Facing The Lights"

Visit "Facing The Lights" on MotoLyrics.com

A flicker on a mainstreet light a man just running by the television is on

A picture on a quick shot remembers what you brought A miserable lie dies

I got my clock now ticking
Saving a life, while you were gone
You got the make up facing
Facing the lights of the most unknown

Let me go, let me go...
You got the sessions, I'm falling apart
I got the answers when I'm falling in lost

Six in a sex-set life the co-militian rights they said you ought to know why

A second of my worthless life a fraction of tonight a cute girl says goodbye

I got my clock now ticking
Saving a life oh, while you were gone
You got the make up facing
facing the lights of the most unknown

Let me go, let me go
You got the sessions, I'm falling apart
I got the answers when I'm falling in lost

So every second of your greatest times will only dignify and show the real side of me And I must say, the only way. Well just ask...
We'll take it out of this place and put it down in my days

So every morning I step out the corner will make me realize that I just turned around my speech Cause adolescence never made much sense

So now excuse my words...
I'm taking you down

Let me go, let me go
You got the sessions, I'm falling apart
I got the answers when I'm falling in lost
