

Goodnight Fellows "Chin Up"

I'll be patient
And count my blessings till
You get scared and run
Just like you always do
And then I'll be no one
Just like I've always been
And everything comes undone
But what's the point of being sad if it's not me
Things just didn't click it's something we didn't see
But I'll keep my chin up because I know that she's out there
Oh I pray that she's out there

You gotta admit that I understand
But Why does it feel so low
If you're feeling fine now
Then teach me to somehow
Forget this

She just hates to be tied down
But we're still young and I'm not trying to tie the knot now
But I just hate to be alone
I feel like I'm the only one
But I'll keep my chin up because I know that she's out there
Oh I pray that she's out there

You gotta admit that I understand
But Why does it feel so low
If you're feeling fine now
Then teach me to somehow
Forget this

If you're feeling fine now
Then teach me to somehow
Forget this
Forget this

Live and learn to wait and hate the way you are Love makes us afraid of who we really are

You gotta admit that I understand
Then Why does it feel so low
If you're feeling fine now
Then teach me to somehow
Forget this

You gotta admit that I understand
But Why does it feel so low
If you're feeling fine now
Then teach me to somehow
Forget this
