K. Messal / G. Cormier

I've been traveling a long, long road, under a heavy load and I can't see my way home rain is fallin' heavily down, can't see my feet for the ground

I'm walking through a river of pain

Up around the very next bend, crossroads in my life again

must be time for introspection lord I am a weary child, can you take the load for a while and point me a direction

(Chorus)

'Cause the cold dark night wind's blowing don't know if I'm coming or going seems I've been down this road before but I don't know when I think I hear someone calling me is it real or a memory

I don't think that I wanna see around the next bend

People stop their lives to stare, will they ridicule or care there's times it's hard to tell will they laugh to keep from crying am I the ghost of their dreams dying or somehow their salvation

And the love ones I have known, distance between us grows and I can't think what to say

Lord, I've fallen to my knees, Through the pain I beg you please

point me a direction.

(Chorus)
