hold on forever, or at least today
don't follow me, i'm blind now you're forsaken, thought you'd never be don't forget that you're mine i seem torn along the path to decide for the better or blow like a draft slightly twisted as you listed all my faults trapped in the vaults of the hard stone of your heart felt sympathy that you lent to me slowly revisited with unlimited sanity feelings of an overblown scheme

with you, i flourished love being malnourished under the cover of a lovers flame slipped down like the winded needy forced down like the money greedy slowly, fundamentally, followed the epitome of your wasted way silently, violently, stroked as the bellows blew up the heat of the extreme shame
