"Say Something"

There's something wrong I heard it on the radio.
They said they're coming from the sky.
Coast to coast Kaleidoscope and emerald eyes,
I hope they're watching over me.
So Say Something save us please.
So say something pray or something please, Save us
from what might.
Change the channels stare into the screen for hours,
but nothing seemed to change.
Last thing I remember, there were flames inside the towers.
Smiling at yet another tragedy.

So say something save us please.
So say something pray or something please, save us
from what might.
I left a message saying I won't be home.
I'm stuck here burning alive, Bye... Bye bye.
The city slumber shook by distant thunder, The sky is falling down on me.
So say something save us please. So say something pray or something please, Save us from might..
Oooooooo Well well say something nervous.
