Since you've been gone there's a darkness
Nowhere a light to be found
The clock on the wall's holding back the time
It's clear that I'm just going down

You and I were made for one another
And I believed that dream for too long

All that you left was a letter
I can't get it out of my mind
No more laughter, no more sun
Alone at the scene of the crime

Now here I am searching for forgiveness, yeah
But nothing seems to matter anymore

There's no tomorrow
Only fire in the rain
You say you're sorry
But only memories remain

You can't tell me there's a reason
Why I should go through all this pain
And once again, once again
I call your name

Love was the wrong destination
And I can't find healing touch
But I won't forsake, I won't give up
I guess I still need you too much

So here we are, strangers to each other, yeah
When once we held the whole world in our hands

There's no tomorrow
Only fire in the rain
You say you're sorry
But only memories remain

You can't tell me there's a reason
Why I should go through all this pain
And once again, once again

I call your name

You say in this life
No one's wrong and nobody's right
You say that you need to be free
And that's what is killing me

There's no tomorrow
Only fire in the rain
You say you're sorry
But only memories remain
There's no tomorrow
Am I the only one to blame?

You can't tell me there's a reason
Why I should go through all this pain
And once again, once again
I call your name

I call your name
Yeah
What am I supposed to do? Tell me
Yeah
