"Walking Dead"

Everyone is a piece of the puzzle a piece of the system, no man is an island a single turning gear in the machine we used to have a purpose and we used to dream we traded it all in to feel secure at the expense of all that we'd hoped for the grinding wheels grind on until we're dead what about all we were told as children?
they said "you can be anything that you want"
now we're all grown up and our lives are fucking burnt we work til we die and cant hope for more you can live and be facile, or you can die (and be poor) that's it, this is the world we're the walking dead, we're forced to be glad we're led by the hand, shoved off the edge i dont want this lifestyle im being force fed everyone gets fucking lost in the shuffle it hardens you up or you crack from the pressure the past just blurs and fucking fades away you're left standing alone facing another day it's always downhill, it always gets worse this "gift of life" can seem like its such a fucking curse

now we're all grown up and our lives are fucking burnt
we work til we die and cant hope for more
that's it, this is the world
we're the walking dead, we're forced to be glad
we're led by the hand, shoved off the edge
and im being force fed walking dead, walking dead, walking dead, we are the walking dead.
we are the walking dead.
we are the walking dead.
