Soul's Road (L. Gowan)

Your compass in hand
Your map to the stars
And no one beside you to say where you're going
Or even how far

You try to decide as you stare into space
Then you start spinning your wheels
Waiting for something to call to your wandering heels
That's how it feels

Some roads will get you to heaven
Some roads will wear down your shoes
Some roads you know will be hell bound
But there's a road that'll get you through
Love is the soul's road calling you

So where is that road?

We're two of a kind
We're stumbling blind
Searching so hard that sometimes it can feel like
We're losing our... minds
How many times have we passed in the night
Not knowing the other was there
Then maybe together we'd finally
Be getting somewhere... somewhere

(chorus)
