(G. Thomas)

Touch...

there was a time when you touch
meant the world to me

I'd give my life

for your touch and your...kiss

I never dreamed you kiss

could become poison to me

You hide behind a lie until you find,
behind the lie,

you've lived your life

We can't build a relation

upon a false foundation

like a crack in the wall...

I found your lie

(repeat verse)

You cross your heart, girl,

it crosses my mind -

The deadliest lie is often told in silence

(refrain)
