I can hear your footsteps,
as you reach for the door.
You're watching me through the keyhole,
as you lie on the floor.
I hold you in my arms,
i can't help but notice you there.
Thinking of everyone this harms,
the red pours from your hair.
Sixteen years and no more counting.
No more laughs and no more frowning.
Heartless is the night, that let you go.
Fearless you were, as the time began to slow.
Hopeless was my eyes, as I held you so.

As i held you so, tightly in my arms.
Nothing can bring us, any further apart.
Sixteen years and no more counting.
No more laughs and no more frowning.
Your ghost is all thats left,
breathing on the back of my neck.
nothing more i can do, i'll just lie with you.
Your lifeless stare is hard to bare,
so hard to bare.
Sixteen years and no more counting.
No more laughs and no more frowning
