Looking out across the coast
Can't find the divide
Maybe the ocean is a ghost
Living in the horizon
And my heart beats fast
As I count the miles
From the city lines
No I'm not running
I'm just stealing time
If I don't go
How will I ever know
What's on the other side
I can't tell the wheel from the road
Or the sea from the sky
I gotta find, I gotta find
Find the divide
I drove a lonely distance
Till the road turned to fire
The night smoothing in around me
But I'm not tired
And my heart beats fast
Shadows win the fight against the heat, oh
The lines are glowing now?
And I can't tell the lion from the beast
If I don't go
How will I ever know
What's on the other side
I can't tell the wheel from the road
Or the sea from the sky
Find the divide
