

Graeme Edge "Lost In Space"

Visit "Lost In Space" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm just in space like the rest of my race
Changin' cells frome day I was born
But I'm still the same though the meat has changed
Something's holding me together that's for sure

I find myself suspended in a vacuum
A vacuum that goes either way
But there must be something else to it
'cause the sun comes to me every day

When I see the truth I see it with my own imagery
It's my brain lying, trying to make me see,
That the truths is so big that it runs eternity
And small enough to fit inside me

Far away past a star into the void inside of me
Or smaller past the atoms that have nothing inside
Just the same as a car or a leaf or a star
Cannot move without command
Something moves me and without it I'd be no more living
Than a hole in the sand

Hold my hand feel it's warm touch from the fire inside
Hold my heart feel it's beating how I can't decide
I don't control my sleeping or when I dream away
But there must be something to it
For I wake up everyday

Visit Graeme Edge page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.