I grew up on the edge of a cornfield at the end of a long dirt road Carolina plow boy, ain't had a free summer since I was ten years old Mama made us pick our own switches so we could feel the sting of doin' wrong
That set me straight on the road I'm still on

I am who I am
The product of a good woman loved by a real good man
I've learned what I've learned
By finding the right way in all of my wrong turns
I love what I love
I ain't afraid to say it 'cause I'm damn sure man
enough
That's what you need to see to get a picture of me

I grew up on gospel 'cause that's all my daddy'd listen to
I found my soul in rock and roll when me and my first guitar were introduced Truth is I've only loved one woman
And she'd have stayed, but I made her leave She's still hauntin' me in every song I sing

I am who I am
The product of a woman still loved by a stubborn man
I've learned what I've learned
By finding the right way in all of my wrong turns
I love what I love
I ain't afraid to say it 'cause I'm damn sure man
That's what you need to see to get a picture of me

Like me or leave me
Either way you know it the second you shake my hand I'm a long way from Jesus, but I know He knows I'm doing the best I can

I am who I am
The product of the good Lord lovin' a sinful man

I've learned what I've learned
By finding the right way in all of my wrong turns
I love what I love
I ain't afraid to say it 'cause I'm damn sure man
That's what you need to see
That's what you need to see to get a picture of me
