Dark night you came to me
Filled with anguish and misery
Do I dare to close my eyes
There is nowhere I can hide

All alone and embraced by darkness
Anguish haunting me so I can't sleep
Longing for the morninglight to surround me
Cause every night I fear for my dreams

When morning comes I feel so calm
Lights surrounds me and the night is far
But soon I will be there again
When I close my eyes I'm damned

All alone and embraced by darkness
Anguish haunting me so I can't sleep
Longing for the morninglight to surround me
Cause every night I fear for my dreams

If I fall asleep, maybe they take me away
The thought makes me weep, I'm starting to pray
I have gathered all my fear, if I fall asleep I'll die
So I'm sitting here and wonder about life
