Don't tell me to look on the bright side. All i know from life is the downside. I made it far with none of your help. Give it two years and you'll leave me anyways. Once burned it's shame on you, twice burned I'll watch you wash away. Setting up for another let down. Prove me wrong I'm begging you now.

Time heals nothing, hate solves everything.
Now I'm taking names. Who's to free and who's to blame. All which lie in my path will be treated all the same.

I cant tell you what's wrong, I cant tell you what's right. Wait till I come around then you can spit your lies. Now don't forget that time heals nothing. The day will come when I will take from you everything.

Time heals no wounds. My patience hasn't healed a fuckin' thing
