The reckless moment jumps up before you know it
It grabs you by your lapels
And throws you straight down to hell
You won't know what hit you
Until the next morning
The next morning

The reckless moment is gone for now you're hoping
You swear you'll never give in again
But it knows right where you live
You could not see it coming
Even with the last warning
The last warning

The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment

The reckless moment is then and there you blow it
It asks you what it is you want
But it knows you back to front
You won't know what hit you
Until the next morning
The next morning

The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment

The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment
The reckless moment
