I Became Awake Great Lake Swimmers lyrics

Artist: Great Lake Swimmers

Album: Ongiara

Year: 2007

Title: I Became Awake Print

Correct

I became awake,

From a very dark place, a patchwork of fear, of poorly conceived ideas.

With a blister of water, the mark of working hands,
Ready to catch, or cut.

The senses aligned, the animal urgency, and voices
picked up,
Flowing over the static, late, quiet.

I became awake.
Fingers are open, eyes they are open, the firing if images, an orchestra of scribbles.
The guts of an engine, the veins of a leaf, light onto paper, exposed.
A filament in a bulb, up above or in the ground.
Together we are magic, together we are dreaming,
together we reach endlessly,
The centre of a seed, so full of possibilities.

I became awake.
I thought I was sleeping, but I was only forming a structure with no ceiling,
With words like a runway, a cloud of a person drifting away.
I was heavy, but now I am light.
I was heavy, but now I am light
