(music: Lardie, Russell / lyrics: Russell)

Where is the love, that waits for me?
Where is the love, where is the love,
to care for me, to shelter me?

Alone, I try, to see the world through innocent eyes;
but through these eyes it's all the same.
Days go by, sands of time, love denied, and as I wait,
alone remain.

...to comfort me?

Passions played, lovers games abate;
the seasons change, and then the fire is gone...

Where is the love that's gonna save me?

Where is the light to guide my way?
Where is the love that sighs,
the clear blue skies, an angel's eyes,
Where is the one to call my own? Oh, yeah.

...to comfort me?

...to shelter me? Yeah...

Oh, where is the love?
Where is the love, to cry for me, to die for me?
