It's hard when you try to survive and try to hold on
As we will go down and we will fall down

I should know better than to let things get to me

It's cold when you sink through the floor
And crawl back for more but still you'll fall down

Until that day I'll try to know my name

I try to blink but go numb so it throws mud in my eye
I gasp for air but there's none, my lungs explode inside

I should know better than to let things get to me
I should know better than to let you get to me
I should know better than to let them get to me
I should know better than to let me get to me

Yeah, vanity insanity, thin lines, it leaves a blindfold?

Thin lines, I try to border them, emotions slaughtered Sort of funny how I let things get to me as if I ordered them

Mistake my kindness for weakness
Freaking leaches dissing my driven speeches Once a fiend, forever fiendish with me unless it's needed

This wizard's greeting invisible spirits feeding invincible lyrics

Beating the shit out of silly gimmicks needed
The freely people letting things get to deep
Would be like Venus to eat me
As he infected me I'd be defeated

I should know better than to let things get to me

I should know better to letting it get to me, yo

I should know better than to let things get to me
