Buy a ticket and get on. Sail out into the great beyond.
Write me if it's any good there at all. Fly out over the sky and the ocean. Look down upon the memories and the ghosts and try to see another side of your self.
Save up all the money in your checks. Try and find yourself another place to live and transportation back home when you fail. Send me a picture of you in your place but don't worry about a smile for your face, I know the grass is greener when it rains. If you really want to be somewhere else I guess you gotta go but don't pretend the people that you meet are any better than the people that you know when you go away. Look up the names of all the great men and if you can't find mine, look it up again... I know it's in there under the tried and the failed. Don't do it for me, do it for yourself. Pick up the reciever, put it to your mouth and tell me you won't be coming back here for a while.
