Your simple dreams,
your careful steps You've never missed a thing I said The thunder cracks and you shake with fear Who will hold you if you're not here
From the city's roar to the river towns There will always be someone to put you down
And that they will,
make no mistake
Throw all their shattered dreams Right up in your face

I might find it hard to say
But you're gonna make it through this world ok
You're gonna make it through this world

In my arms
you took your rest Would lay your head upon my chest
Your gentle hands, your silky skin
Your liquid eyes they'd just drink me in

I tried to keep ahead of you I cleared a path
but obscured the view Now you've packed your bags and your fragile heart And it looks like I'm the one who just might fall apart

I might find it hard to say
But you're gonna make it through this world ok
You're gonna make it through this world

Your soul and wisdom defy your age
Are you sure you're ready to turn the page

I might find it hard to say
But you're gonna make it through this world ok
You're gonna make it through this world
You're gonna make it through this world
You're gonna make it through this world ok
