i'm ready for waking up this time got the open ears and open mind got my voice box ready but i dont know what it is i need ready for waking up this time

decided on no regrets this time so give me strength and peace of mind as i stand ready why is it i always have to fight to belong?
am i right or am i wrong?

you're not alone
there's got to be a million people living just like you so dont complain
i will try, but something isnt right

the future hasn't been defined i've got this vision and i think i fit in here somewhere i've got this thing i'd like to try so open up your narrow eyes and see whats coming i dont intend to stand here so polite for so long

am i right or am i wrong?

there's got to be a million people living just like you

make a run for something you love join the club and find out who you're not theres a place for everyone involved that doesnt include you make a run for something you love

looking good until you find you dont have any legs to call your own i will fight to belong

am i right or am i wrong?

there's got to be a million people living just like you
so dont complain
