"Fear Of Falling"

There was a time that I believed in you
Everything you told me I took for truth
But that was then this is now
Things keep changing

We are running when love is calling
It's just the fear, fear of falling

We count our blessing, and we count our friends
We count on love and it always ends much too soon Cause the world keeps on turning

We're still running when love is calling
It's just the fear, fear of falling

But I'll keep trying, oh that chance to have it all
I might even get lucky and find someone to prove me wrong
And break on through those foolish fears of mine, no running

No more running when love is calling
No fear, fear of falling

No more running when love is calling
No fear, no fear of falling
Just ain't no such thing as falling
