It is not the past few days
That have has me feel this way
It is just the way she looks at me
That cover everything I see
And it is not the tiny marks of doubt
That I have never seen
With a love so complete
Of things I never felt
And from this grows
A strong, undying guilt
And oh, I wanted to change
I wanted to change
And the feeling of regret
And I know, I know what she needs
And become what she needs
I know what she needs
But I can never be
And I can never bel can never be
