

Grey Cell Green

"Train Of Thought"

Visit "Train Of Thought" on MotoLyrics.com

The time will come to take a stand you'll never know just when

But you don't raise your voice, cause you're not one of them

As one by one the opposition just disappears Realizing your worst fears, you know the end is near

All of the pieces fall into place
Slowly all your rights they get stripped away
The life that you once knew is forever changed
On the basis of color, religion and race

They take control but no one speaks, no one says a word
All that they haven't seen, the screams they never heard Against the grain you stand alone you know just what that brings
They come for you and there's no one left to say a thing

Gently the corner stone set into place
The foundation around it is chipped away
All of the challenges we'll have to face
Just to insure that this can not happen again

All of the pieces fall into place
Slowly all your rights get stripped away
All of the guns you surrendered are now fully Loaded and pointed right back in your face

Gently the corner stone set into place
The foundation around it is chipped away
All of the challenges we'll have to face
Just to insure that this can not happen again

Never again...

Visit Grey Cell Green page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

