

Grey Daze "Hole"

I would have sailed away, if I'd known that nothing would change Staring out my window sill, in my waisted prison cell

And I know what you want
And I know what you feel
As I cradle your loving
And you watch you disappear

And I feel your heart beat, pounding in my head
I'd like to control you, cause I can't control myself

Rain come my way, mold my head lika ball of clay Softly wither into my grave, never to see the sun again

All alone in a crowd by myself, so sorry wish I could find a way
Back into your hole again, I've become your enemy
