

Grey Holiday "Let Go"

Visit "Let Go" on MotoLyrics.com

I've been holding on
To things like dreams that never seem to die
And I'm not so strong to lay them down
And say my goodbyes
How do you say goodbye?

If there's a remedy
A break from all my vanity
Then I'm gonna need your help

If there's hope for me
Pull me down to my knees
Where I'm begging for your help

To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)
To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)

It's so unnatural
To let all that I've planned just slip away
But I would be a fool
To tighten up my hands and be afraid
What I need is faith

If there's a remedy
A break from all my vanity
Then I'm gonna need your help

If there's hope for me
Pull me down to my knees
Where I'm begging for your help

To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)
To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)

I'm walking right up to the edge
I'm bringing everything that's left of me
I throw myself into your love
You'll be the one to lift me up again

As I let go

If there's a remedy
A break from all my vanity
Then I'm gonna need your help

If there's hope for me
Pull me down to my knees
Where I'm begging for your help

To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)
To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)

To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)
To let go
(To let go, to let go, to let go)
