Night, night, night invites light
Entering air, opens a line
Blue, blue, blue shapes in red
Cristals the space, stars fall to sleep
Sun up-set, the moon melts down

Breeze, breeze, breezes awake
Plays with a beam, paints the scene
It's green, green, green is the grass
Covered by pearls
A web splits the light into a glance
Sun up-set, the moon melts down

Sky high, shadows fall
Drawing the time, for flowers to bloom
Moon, moon, moon fo away
Down to the land opened for eyes
To see in deep, deep darkness,
Covers a skin, touched by a hand.
Sun up-set, the moon melts down
