I fell again, big surprise again, running after you.
I have a doctorate at messin' up.
Just to keep breathin', to keep failing, I know that I need you.
But I'm not content with failure

So take me back, once again.
Take me back, if I must, if I must
I'll make the comeback of a lifetime everyday.
I haven't noticed God to require perfection
Of those that He's able to use.
I have observed however that those used by God Weren't content with their present state of imperfection.

(Repeat chorus)
