I'm sorry but I can't help my heart
It's broken, you tore it apart
There's nothing good around now, nowhere in sight
Only you can lift the darkness of this night

Darling, come back
Darling, come back
Been living my life like a rabbit on the tracks

You make me smile
I used to make you laugh
And I used to look at you and not this photograph

I'm foolish to waste my time like this
When there are plenty of other lips that I could kiss There's something 'bout the way that your blue eyes look at the world
And it kills me to know that the thought of my heart makes yours cold

Darling, come back
Darling, come back
Without you I'm ridiculously sad and all the mountains look flat

And I really need to smile
I really need to laugh
I really need to throw away this photograph
