Dorothy moves to click her ruby shoes
Right in tune with dark side of the moon
Someone, someone could tell me
Where I belong
Be calm, be brave, it'll be okay.

No more messing around and living
Underground
And new year's resolutions
By this time next year I won't be here
I turn on, I turn on MTV, the volumes down
Lips move, they say, it'll be okay

To tell you the truth I've said it before
Tomorrow I start in a new direction
One last time these words from me
I'm never saying them again
And I shut off the light
And listen as my watch unwinds

To tell you the truth I've said it before
Tomorrow I start in a new direction
I know I've been half-asleep
I'm never doing that again

I look straight at what's coming ahead
And soon it's going to change in a new
Direction
Every night as I'm falling asleep
These words repeated in my head

Voices calling from a yellow road
To come downstairs, and say hello
Don't be shy, just say hello

To tell you the truth I've said it before
Tomorrow I start in a new direction
I know I've been half-asleep
I'm never doing that again

I look straight at what's coming ahead
And soon it's going to change in a new

Direction
Every night as I'm falling asleep
These words repeated in my head
