I wish I had a dime for every bad time
But the bad times always seem to keep the change
You been all alone so you know what I'm sayin'
And when all you can recall is the pain

Just to wait until tomorrow when you wake up with me
At your side and find I haven't lied about nothin'
And I wouldn't trade a tree for the way I feel
About you in the mornin' anyhow I love you

Everyday it gets just a little bit better
And half of gettin' there is knowin' where I been before
I'm sure you understand cause I ain't your first man
And when you feel like runnin' for the back door don't
Just to wait until tomorrow...
[guitar + harmonica]
Just to wait until tomorrow...
And I just wait until tomorrow...
