I guess it took a special kind, and darling you're a special kind. When you give to those who give, you take love from those who love. It's in her veins, and in her bones. She walks on air. It's in her heart and it cuts me down in my head, the one she knows so well. It's in her heart but I could not care, she's still around, standing there. Baby never thinks of war, baby wouldn't see the point, 'cause when she gives she gives to those who give and takes love from those who love. See it in her eyes and in her smile. She walks on air. It's in her heart
