Here I am, caught in your light
These cold summer nights I remember well
Home and away I run from you
But there's still too much to tell
And I wanted you to stay
But we're still on the borderline
There's still so much to say
But yet so much unsaid

Find the time, your love can flow
It's a big mistake I know
On and on, the rain will fall
And I know you'll run away
You're on my mind
I know I'll forgive you once again

You know I'll love you just the same
Though the wind knows your name
And it's calling you again
But I just can't explain
The reason for these games
And I know you're not to blame
Here comes the rain

I'm part of you, you know it's true
But maybe you had to wait too long
To find your line out in the wild
Until you can sing your song
Believe in me, I know you well
Trust in your faith, you'll find the way
You see the entrance to the heart
But walk away instead

Look at me now, I'm just drifting place to place
Remember the smile that you wiped out from my face
If you could only hear these words you'd start believing
That you're on my mind
And I know I'll forgive you once again

You know I'll love you just the same
Thought the wind knows your name
And it's calling you again

But I just can't explain
The reason for these games
And I know you're not to blame
Here comes the rain

Even though it's such a shame
I'm sure I feel your pain
But I just can't stand the rain...
