

Hal Ketchum "She Found The Place"

Visit "She Found The Place" on MotoLyrics.com

She found the place where I've been hiding
Have I the grace to let her in
To where my heart has been residing
Away from the joy and pain again?

She's come a long way from her home
Seen the serpent's tongue, heard the lion roar
Braved the thicket and the dark hush
To lay a fair hand at my door

She holds what little love I render
Like a candle on a windy night
And I pray the gale shall not offend her
By stealing such a fragile light

She's come a long way from her home
Seen the serpent's tongue, heard the lion roar
Braved the thicket and the dark hush
To lay a fair hand at my door

She found the place where I've been hiding
Lord, have I the grace to let her in Where my heart has been residing
Far away from the joy and pain again?

Visit Hal Ketchum page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.