Our love's grown older
Seems like its colder
Than the rock on which
I carved your name

On down the road we walk
In separate shadows
Now there's nowhere else to go

And when we read the book of time
We'll see that we were blind
But tried to understand

War of words, no one survives
These words of war cut deep inside

I thought our love would never end
Like letters in the sand
Our passion's washed away

And so the tide rolls in again
With the morning storm brings
Another cloudy day

It's getting harder day by day
To believe that we can
Stay, oh, together, baby

War of words, no one survives
These words of war cut deep inside
War of words, the truth, the lies
These words of war, they hurt more
More, more and more

I guess the dream
That love has kept alive
Couldn't last forever
Though we tried, how we tried

And when we read the book of time
We'll see that we were blind
But tried to understand

War of words, no one survives
These words of war cut deep inside
War of words, the truth, the lies
These words of war, they hurt more
And more, more and more

War of words, no one survives
These words of war cut deep inside
War of words, the truth, the lies
These words of war
