We used to walk round at night
Sucking the blood of the streets
Mixed up and feeling so low
Just like cars at the edge of the road

Nobody knows where to go
Nobody knows where to go

Spiraling down from the top
Fixing and staring above
Waking but still somehow stuck
From this sleep you can't get up

Nobody knows where to go
Here nobody knows where to go

No time, no love, no space
There's no way to get free from this place

Nobody knows where to go
Nobody knows where to go

See the sunshine leaves you no escape
From the lights of the cars and the stars
From the pain that will tear you apart
From the mess and the chaos you feel in your head
when you're down
From the world that you can't leave behind
From the pain of the stuff that you feed in your arms
when you're down

No time, no space, no love
There's no way to get free from this world
