You feel like you're gotta say what you think
You never saw was gonna come your way

You feel what you're gonna say
But in such a weird way you wanna play

It is like a hole, such a black hole
A taste in your mouth that is gone sour

You think what you're gonna say
But now think again cause you'll never go back

And I have nothing to complain about
And I have nothing to display
Realize it's happening again
Mesmerized, it's happening again

The phones ring out but there's nobody there
Through the satellites and televisions there's fear in the air

You hum like a hospital
And you count out the minutes
And you stare through the walls

It's such a hole, such a black hole
Comes flooding through the floor
And pulling down the doors again

I wish I was far away
But once that you change you can never go back

And then I have nothing to obey
And I have nothing to retain
Realize it's happening again
Mesmerized, it's happening again

Never gonna
Never gonna ever put me aside
