Tomorrow's so close
If I run all night

Looking for you
Cause I need your grace
To look inside myself

This night I'm turning on the lights
Let me just forget the world today
Cause if you never fall apart
And you never break in two
How can I ever make you well again?

When all I can hold
Is the taste
Of your skin

When everything glides
Like on ice
Like on ice

Before is too late
Before we get too old to feel anything
This night I'm turning on the lights
Let me just forget the world today
Cause if you never fall apart
And you never break in two
How can I ever make you well again?

We can borrow innocence
We can borrow happiness
We will never be the same

After tonight, we're turning on the lights
We save ourselves and ignore the world again
Cause if we ever fall apart
We'll never break in two
We'll always make each other well again
