All the world lay before her feet
And sky above her
After him all that she believes
No one could love her now
Just a place that no one wants to go

All in time
You change your mind
For wrong or right
The day brings night
Look through eyes that hide and you will find

No one ever sings like the caged bird
No one ever screams like the boy that's never heard
No one ever clings like love's first last goodbye
And no one ever dreams like the girl who never learned
to lie

Just a boy with too much love to give
But love will break him
The biggest hearts are the easiest to break
But he would show them all
Nothing left but a name upon the wall

All in time
You change your mind
For wrong or right
The day brings night
Look through eyes that hide and you will find

No one ever sings like the caged bird
No one ever screams like the boy that's never heard
No one ever clings like love's first last goodbye
And no one ever dreams like the girl who never learned
to lie

The day will come when
All your dreams have gone to bed
We will carry on...

All in time

You change your mind
For wrong or right
The day brings night
Look through eyes that hide and you will find

No one ever sings like the caged bird
No one ever screams like the boy that's never heard
No one ever clings like love's first last goodbye
And no one ever dreams like the girl who never learned
to lie

No one ever sings like the caged bird
No one ever screams like the boy that's never heard
No one ever clings like love's first last goodbye
And no one ever dreams like the girl who never learned
to lie

Who never learned to lie
Who never learned to lie
