

Hani "Confession"

Visit "Confession" on MotoLyrics.com

It started with a harmless lie
You needed someone by your side
Some fool you could sell your time
As long as you would say your mine

Let me confess to you
If I ever had to choose
To make these chains untie
Between your heart and mine
My tears would end with my life too

You looked at me with hopeful eyes
And to you I cast no blame
Despite of all your faithful cries
The ones before me let you down in vain

So let me confess to you
If I ever had to choose
To make these chains untie

Between your heart and mine
My tears would end with my life too

But how could you belong to me
With nothing left to give? (nothing left to give)
You disappeared with your faith in me
And returned to find the love you need to live
(the love you need to live)

To make these chains untie
Between your heart and mine
My tears would end with my life too

It started with a harmless lie
Was I all you hoped to find?
Was I all you hoped to find?

Visit Hani page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.