Recorded by Hank Snow

Another cryin' night will soon be over now
The morning light won't help, I'll still be blue
'Cause everywhere I turn there's only loneliness
Memories are all I can hold to

Memories are the moments when we were as one
Memories you would only hope to find
Memories, in your loving arms, you'd whisper my name
Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine

All these memories are locked within my heart
My world was gone the moment I lost you

If wants could talk, they'd tell you of the tears I've cried
But memories are all I can hold to

Memories are the moments when we were as one
Memories you would only hope to find
Memories, in your loving arms, you'd whisper my name
Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine
Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine
