Morning's come and Lord my mind is aching
The sunshine's standing quietly at my door
Just like the dawn my heart is silently breaking
With my tears it goes tumbling to the floor.

Once again this whole town will be talking
Lord I've seen that pity that's in their eyes
They could never understand it's her sorrow and not a man
No matter what they say I know she tried.

Baby has packed her soft things and she's left me
But I just know she never meant to make me cry
It's not her heart it's just her mind she didn't mean to be unkind
Why she even woke me up to say goodbye.

Baby has packed her soft things and she's left me
But I just know she never meant to make me cry
It's not her heart it's just her mind she didn't mean to
be unkind
Why she even woke me up to say goodbye...
