I got a letter from the court this morning,
Filled with big words lawyers seem to use
They say that you have 'cused me of neglect, dear
And with trembling hand I am writing you.

The party of the second part is very sad and blue
And wonders if the party of the first part is lonely too
The party of the second part would give the world to win
The party of the first part back again.

They say that I have wronged you and the're right dear
I took for granted love so sweet and true
But I have learned through many sleepless nights dear
The party of te second part loves you.

The party of the second part is very sad and blue
And wonders if the party of the first parts lonely too,
The party of the second part would give the world to win
The party of the first part back again...
