

Hank Williams

"You Blotted My Happy Schooldays"

Visit "You Blotted My Happy Schooldays" on MotoLyrics.com song: i blotted happy school days - hank williams

i blotted your happy school days

(e) when i entered that school room that mornin' in may,
i noticed you over the (b7) way, and (e) then with your pen dear you painfully wrote, you (b7) blotted my happy school (e) days.

first chorus

i blotted your happy school days,
i'm sorry i caused you this pain, i'll ask god to forgive me and to guide me always,
for i blotted your happy school days.

the teacher was watchin' with a wondering eye, she noticed your anguish and pain, she knew it would hurt you to have sympathy, with a heart that was breakin' in pain.

repeat first chorus

i have all the notes that you wrote to me, i've folded and kept them with care, they're all put away to be touched no more, to save as a memory so dear.

when i passed by your coffin to take my last look, i placed my last kiss on your brow, i know you're in heaven with friends that are dear, and i know that i'll meet you up there.

second chorus

for i blotted your happy school days,
i'm sorry i caused you this pain, but i'll ask god to forgive me and to guide me always,
for i blotted your happy school days.

