

Hank Williams Jr. "Last Love Song"

Visit "Last Love Song" on MotoLyrics.com

I know it's over
Cause I don't keep you satisfied anymore
But before you move along
Let me sing you the last love song

Tomorrow when I wake
What will take the place
Of smiles on your face
And black hair against white lace

And I wonder
If I'll be thinking of
Our early morning love
All the sweet things that you'd say
That brightens up my darkest day

And tomorrow night
What do you suggest
To take the place of your breast
Pressed against my chest
Oh how I'll miss your tenderness

But there's no use cryin'
Cause love's a grown up game
A little pleasure then a lot of pain
First we call each other bad names
Then what we had is never quite the same

I wish I could find
Eyes that won't cry
Lips that won't lie
And love that won't die
Hmm hmm hmm hm and a love that won't die

Visit Hank Williams Jr. page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.