(Hank Williams)

We were waiting at the church
We watched and saw the wedding start
As the organ played, we stood there and prayed
Just me and my broken heart.

Oh, can't you see what you have done to me
Oh, foolish, foolish pride
You brought tears and sorrow to
An untrue heart that never cried.

I saw the sunshine of my life
Who once I know just worshiped me
Standin' by another's side
And soon his bride she'll be.

I bowed my head in grief and shame
As I felt the teardrops start
But as the organ played, we stood there and prayed
Just me and my broken heart...
