And I can't play this game for you
If I was her all gone and scrabbles left only consonants for you
I can't say if it's right or if it's the wrong thing to do

Are you calling from a payphone this time?
The lines aren't clear is everything ok on your side?

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

Who has a say on how the way things should be?
And who will take you home when the lights go on and your glass is empty?
Who will hold your breath when you're diving off ... the deep end?

Are you calling from a payphone this time?
The lines aren't clear is everything ok on your side?

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

No one needs to know, no one needs to know right now
Take a deep breath and don't let 'em break you down

Don't let 'em break you down
Don't let 'em break you down
