When the king wants to conquer a place first the people erase other than finding no one he gets alone and shouts out for a battle this is a story a dreamy one no one knows why it happens but its for me i know that i was wrong to conquer a land first see the rules and regulations then follow the real mind and conquer the palace from the intelligence and watch the world give you all the permission i love this place i conquered and felt safe i felt together with the love and the other race first you have to conquer your own land it makes sense to have the land on which your standing i know i know know know this is a possible way of making things better by my ideas

the art of war teaches to never surrender for the others and the chase no other no wonder after all that has been done no other than one it has been my first place i stay and i see conquer the land
conquer the land
conquer the land on which your standing on
